LIVESTOCK DEVELOPMENT AT GYTTE

The livestock Development Program at the GYTTE Tree of Life Training Center and Demonstration Farm helps families and communities combat hunger and poverty through the distribution of food and income producing animals. GYTTE's objective is to genetically improve the livestock of the region; increase small-animal production; provide animal protein; and increase family income. This is accomplished by training local people in environmentally-sound livestock management practices and by selling them income-producing animals, dairy goats and hair sheep, at a subsidized price for milk and meat production for family use and sales. GYTTE (Give Ye Them To Eat) is an integrated Development Program of the Methodist Church of Mexico supported by Tabernacle UMC.
