America celebrates two independence days!

Juneteenth (Emancipation Day)

“Juneteenth though passed as a federal law in 2021, has its significance in 1865 when Major General Gordon Granger arrived in Galveston and issued the Order Number 3, which stated the freedom of all slaves by the issue of Emancipation Proclamation, by Abe Lincoln on January 1st, 1863. The people of Galveston did not know they were free and found out after the order was issued by Gordon Granger on June 19th, 1865, two years after the original date of proclamation. Texas was the last state to recognize the proclamation and hence June 19th or “Juneteenth” became the official day. The law was ratified after all the states agreed to free all forms of slavery within the Union of America which was completed on June 19th, 1865.” A holiday is given to the memory of the ending of slavery in America.
